What's Hot Today:

Anta (2020.HK): 1Q24 operation data update

Anta saw its Anta brand/Fila brand sales increased by mid-singledigit/high-single-digit in 1Q24. The Q1 sales growth was slower than the full-year guidance of 10-15% due to high base, and the Mgt is satisfied with the results and confident to achieve the full-year target.

Anta brand: A mid-single-digit growth was recorded in Q1, mainly due to high base. Inventory at the end of March 2024 remained below five months, the lowest level among the past few quarters. Discount in offline remained consistent, but the Mgt said that online discount is narrowing. They saw strong sales momentum, especially in the second half of March. Looking ahead, they expect new product launches and multiple events in the rest of the year, for instance, the Olympic Games, summer season and Double 11 will drive Anta's growth.

Fila brand: Q1 saw a high-single-digit growth with a healthy inventory level of less than 5 months. The Mgt highlighted that online sales is growing rapidly and grew by 25% during the quarter.

Our view: We think Anta is a major beneficiary of the growing sports market in China. As the leading domestic brand, we believe Anta will continue to gain market shares from foreign brands and thus better financial performance on economies of scale. The ticker is trading at 16.7x FY24x P/E.

Risks: 1) slower-than-expected sportswear growth; 2) weaker-thanexpected economy (Research Department)
